Description

Moving unanchored loads is a problem that should not be underestimated. Proper load securing must be done using appropriate anchoring systems, such as, straps. Ratchet anchor straps consist of 2 parts, the part with the ratchet and a hook and the part of straps with another hook.

The hooks are essential for securing the two strap components on a ring or interlocking.

The straps are responsible for absorbing shocks and holding the cargo in place, thus preventing unpleasant accidents during transport. They are ideal for preventing goods from moving during transport, even when carrying large loads.
